Types of Abuse

Physical: Physical abuse, or bodily harm, can range from bruises and scratches to death.

Adults may not be locked in rooms, tied down, overmedicated or under medicated. Only a physician can write a prescription for restraints, and all medications should be taken as prescribed by a physician.

Isolation: Including False imprisonment, Preventing an elder or dependent adult from receiving mail, phone calls, or having contact with family, friends or concerned persons.

Abandonment: Desertion by a person who has assumed responsibility for providing care for an elder or dependent adult.

Abduction: Forcible holds or detention (or any other means of instilling fear) of an elder or dependent adult whereby he/she is moved to another location against his/her will.

Sexual: Sexual abuse encompasses unwanted sexual advances; including assaultive behavior, coercion or intimidation.

Financial: Financial abuse is using the elder's money or assets contrary to the elder's wishes, needs, or best interests—or for the abuser's personal gain.

This could include theft or misuse of money and credit cards, or forcing an elder/dependent adult to sign documents.

Self Neglect: Failure of an elder or dependent adult to provide for his/her own basic needs, such as food, water, shelter, personal care, medical care, finances, and personal safety.

Neglect: Failure of a caregiver to provide basic needs such as food, water, personal care, shelter, medical care and prescribed medications.
